ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY

The Department of Psychology provides students with a solid foundation in the major theoretical perspectives of psychology and its scientific approach. By studying psychology at Webster, students attain a broad understanding of and appreciation for the complexity and diversity of human behavior within a global context. Through the psychology curriculum, students learn about both the scientific and applied areas of psychology from a range of perspectives including biological, clinical/counseling, cognitive/learning, lifespan developmental, and social/cultural.

WEBSTER DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

A minimum of 120 credit hours consisting of the following:

- Applicable University Global Citizenship Program hours
- Required credit hour

LANGUAGE REQUIREMENT

In addition to the required courses in the major, many students are required to have three credit hours^ in a non-native language (expertise demonstrated by coursework or testing). Courses used towards the International language requirement may also be used to fulfill general education/GCP requirements or a major/minor in a foreign language. Students whose native language is not English and who are studying English will be considered to have achieved their foreign language requirement if they successfully pass an ESL test of their English proficiency (e.g., TOEFL).

- Students seeking the B.A. are required to have a minimum of three credit hours of a non-native language.
- Students seeking the B.S. are not currently required to study a non-native language.

WEBSTER ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

When considering an application, Webster looks for evidence of potential for academic success. A cumulative GPA on college level coursework of at least 2.5 on a 4.0 scale is preferred; however, each applicant is given individual consideration. If you have circumstances which might affect your admission this may be discussed confidentially with a member of the admissions staff. The University operates on rolling admission, and application files are reviewed by an
